

As a new resident in New Jersey I cannot begin to tell you how happy I am with New Jersey's Do Not Call List. I moved from New York to New Jersey last year and was bombarded with unsolicited calls throughout the day and evening. My caller ID logged in more than 16 calls a day. Telemarketers are a nuisance. They are rude and quite frankly a little scary sometimes. We never know if it is really a telemarketer or someone calling to see if we are home for criminal reasons. After adding our names to the Do Not Call List we now know something is not right if we get a strange call and are more cautious. My vote is to keep the New Jersey Do Not Call Law as is. I appreciate the fact that it is the strictest in the country.
